The Clabile Trust spreads its wings to support children in Uganda

The Clabile Trust has formed a relationship with a school in the village of Budoma, Uganda called BMK (named after its founder, Banerya Musa Kasoone). Musa, as he is known, was a poor subsistence farmer who was given a cow by the Send a Cow charity. He realised that a school was desperately needed by his village. From the sale of surplus milk he started a school in his own house in 2003 and this quickly grew from a handful of children to over 350 just two years later. The school educates children from 7-14 years. Last year, seven children completed their primary education at BMK and therefore needed to attend secondary school. However, the nearest secondary school, Nile School, charges fees and is a 30 minute cycle ride away so, without financial support, the children were not able to continue their education. The Clabile Trust therefore agreed to support these children and set about finding sponsors for each child to cover the costs of the school fees, uniform, food and a bicycle. We are so grateful to Heidi Behrens, Judith Morgan, Jodie Whittaker, Sherrie & Tim Nixon, Julie Boffy, Toni Nash and Rebekah & Anthony Flanagan for helping us making the lives better for these children.

← This is Mutesi Sharita. She is 13 years old and an orphan. She lives with 11 other children and is looked after by two widows who are 75 years old. Sponsored by Heidi Behrens.

This is Magoola Nicholas and he is an orphan. Although he is only 14 years old, he heads a household of nine other people. Nicholas is good with his hands and he likes to do practical work. Sponsored by Toni Nash. →

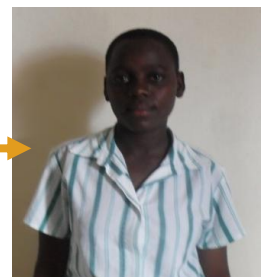

← This is Nkonte Frank and he is 15 years old. He does not know his parents and was brought up by two people he calls his step grandparents. However, they have now died and he has been left to fend for himself. Sponsored by Julie Boffy.

This is Tumulinde Resty and she is an orphan. Although she is only 14 years old she is the head of her household of nine other people - two elderly relatives and her seven siblings. Resty is good with her hands and likes to sow and make clothes. Sponsored by Rebekah & Anthony Flanagan. →

← This is Mutenderwa Ashiraf and he is 15 years old. He is the head of his family of eleven other people. Ashiraf enjoys working on the land, but his ambition is to go to college and become a doctor. Sponsored by Jodie Whittaker.

This Nangobi Sharia and she is 14 years old. She was ignored by her parents when she was born and was brought up by her aunt, who is now 82 years old. Sharia's family is particularly poor and she often suffers from malnutrition. Sponsored by Judith Morgan. →

← This is Kamwiine Isaac and he is 15 years old. He is an orphan and comes from a particularly poor and vulnerable background. His family struggles to grow enough vegetables for a proper diet and they cannot afford to buy additional food. Isaac likes to work with his hands and he enjoys bricklaying. Sponsored by Sherrie & Tim Nixon.

Hope for Jim

Jim Fatlane is 14 years old but he had never been to school due to his mental and physical disabilities which leave him unable to talk and partially incontinent. We are delighted to have found a school which specialises in helping children like Jim. It is called "Mahwelereng centre of hope", is a boarding school located at Potgietersrus and accommodates 100 children. The Clabile Trust is proud to be providing the funding for Jim to attend this school. He started in January and has already shown considerable improvement - he has started to talk and is able to sleep at night without a nappy. We look forward to updating you more on Jim's progress.

Our 3rd Year at the London 10k

Another successful event for The Clabile Trust on 10th July at the biggest 10k race in the UK. We were inundated with requests to take part but, with 6 places, it was a race to reply first and this year's runners were, Alastair Johnson, Dill Upsdell, Paul Turrell, Urvi Patel, Sophie Meeson and Katie Forshaw (replacement runner to Arthur Lilley who was unfortunately injured).

All the runners did a fantastic job. For some, taking part was an incentive to start running and the 10k was a first and no mean feat. For others, records were attempting to be broken. The route took participants through some fabulous parts of London, passing through Piccadilly Circus, along Embankment taking in the London Eye and Tate Modern before returning and finishing on Pall Mall.

Donations are still coming in but we are hoping to have raised £1200-1400. This would be a wonderful achievement and we thank our runners for taking part and to those who have donated so generously to The Clabile Trust.

We have places at next years 10k so be sure to get in quick if you would like to take part...

How to give ...
